Creative Catalyst: Design For Change Competition

Want to use your designs for a good cause? Creative Catalyst lets you do just that. Design a piece to support an issue of your choice and you could win a £2000 donation as well as your design displayed in Berlin and London with a Computer Arts Magazine profile and double page spread. Your work will be judged by an international panel of design luminaries. And if you're new to Veer you can use images and fonts from our FREE toolkit.

Competition Brief

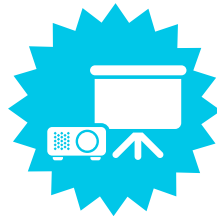

As creative people your ideas are your greatest commodity. This is a chance to use those skills to raise awareness or promote a cause you really believe in.

Globally there are hundreds of non-profit organisations and under-represented issues that need help getting their messages out. Ranging across environmental, social and economic concerns they often struggle for attention and can have difficulty being heard. So let's play our part and give them a stronger voice.

We would like you to design a piece for a cause that greatly matters to you - no restrictions on topic but a social focus is mandatory (meaning something that impacts on people in whatever way).

The final work will be visually engaging and clear-messaged. Best of luck!

Up for grabs!

Feature in Computer
Arts Magazine

The shortlist will be exhibited online, projected on high profile sites in Berlin and showcased at London's onedotzero. The winning work will appear in a double page spread in Computer Arts magazine alongside a profile of the artist and £2000 will be donated to their cause.

As a thank you for your efforts we'll give each shortlisted entrant a Veer 1000 Credit Pack and the winner will receive 2000 Veer Credits to spend on images, vectors and fonts.
